Schneider Downs Wealth Management Advisors, LP (“SD Wealth Management”) was established in 2000 and became a Registered Investment Advisor with the U.S. Securities & Exchange Commission in October 2003. The principal owner is Schneider Downs Financial Advisors LP (“SDFA”), which represents the interests of the shareholders of Schneider Downs & Company, Inc. (“SDCO”). The General Partner is Schneider Downs Advisors II, LLC. Nancy Skeans is the Chief Executive Officer and Chief Compliance Officer of SD Wealth Management. Along with Nancy Skeans, Jason Lumpkin and Derek Eichelberger are limited partners that work directly in the practice. The practice has two groups servicing our clients; SDWMA Personal Financial Services and SDWMA Retirement Solutions.

SDWMA Personal Financial Services offers fee based investment management services, including financial planning services. SDWMA Retirement Solutions offers (1) Discretionary Investment Management Services, (2) Nondiscretionary Investment Advisory Services and/or (3) Retirement Plan Consulting Services to employer-sponsored retirement plans and their participants.

You may opt to engage SD Wealth Management for any or all of the services offered. Fees are based upon the nature of the services to be provided and are not derived from any investment product or manager. Fees are described in further detail in Item 5: Fees and Compensation.

The assets under management for all services as of December 31, 2020 are:

Discretionary	$ 1,479,749,677.00
Non Discretionary	$ 635,185,549.00
Total	$2,114,935,226.00

For discretionary accounts, SD Wealth Management will work with you to set the overall direction and goals for the account. SD Wealth Management will then implement your strategy and purchase the individual investments or appropriate model. SD Wealth Management will also have authority to decide when to buy and sell securities within your account, without obtaining your pre-trade approval. You will see the transactions through trade confirmations and on your monthly account statements provided directly from the custodian.

For accounts in which SD Wealth Management does not have discretion, we will not have the ability to buy or sell securities for your account. In this situation, you may suffer or benefit from the trading restriction. For example, if SD Wealth Management liquidates ABC mutual fund and cannot reach you to obtain approval for a week or if you do not place the order upon receipt of the call, the price of the security to be liquidated may have fluctuated during this time.

SD Wealth Management also has client relationships in which we monitor and report on portfolios, offer professional advice, and/or make investment recommendations on accounts for which we do not have discretion. Any recommended purchases or sales will be communicated to you and you will be responsible for executing the respective trades should you decide to implement them.

SDWMA Personal Financial Services will monitor the SAM, including but not limited to, performance reviews, benchmark comparisons and management research. SDWMA Personal Financial Services will determine when a manager will be added or removed from an account. Additional information regarding the unaffiliated SAM is available from the SAM’s ADV Part 2A. Fees charged by the SAM are separate from those charged by SDWMA Personal Financial Services. Please refer to Item 5: Fees and Compensation for more details.

Accounts managed by SDWMA Personal Financial Services are subject to regular review to assure conformity with your objectives and investment guidelines. If such determination is made, you will be informed of the proposed fee prior to any work being accomplished and can decide to move forward or change the scope of the project.

SDWMA Personal Financial Services, at the discretion of management, may on occasion offer standalone planning to non-investment management clients. There are no conditions, such as minimum value of assets, in connection with the financial planning services. Fees are described in further detail in Item 5: Fees and Compensation.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

The SD Wealth Management Investment Committee (“the Committee”) is composed of experienced, credentialed, investment professionals. The Committee generally meets formally once a quarter to review portfolio investment holdings, to discuss policy, and to weigh any issues that need to be addressed stemming from shifts in the market environment. There may be intra-quarter meetings among committee members in order to work on special projects or to follow-up on issues arising from the formal Committee meeting.

Client portfolio holdings include mutual funds, individual bond holdings, individual securities, including ETF's, SAM investments and (to a lesser extent) limited partnerships. SD Wealth Management does not employ margin as an investment strategy.

SD Wealth Management employs diversified investment strategies. It is important to note that investing in any capital markets related strategy involves the risk of loss that you should be prepared to bear.

Once you are made aware of the long-term risks associated with a particular equity to fixed income asset allocation strategy, SD Wealth Management seeks to lessen the level of risk within the model by diversifying among asset classes within the portfolio and by investing the portfolio in holdings that on their own have demonstrated a strong trade-off between risk and return. Whether the strategy employs mutual funds, individual bonds, separate accounts, or individual securities, the inherent level of total portfolio risk is considered during the portfolio construction process.

In particular, care is taken to ensure that there is not a concentration of risk within the portfolio, unless otherwise directed by you. Within the equity exposure of any strategy, there will generally be underlying exposure to domestic large cap, mid cap and small cap stocks, with at least some exposure to both the value and growth style of investing. There is also exposure to international equities, which may include exposure to emerging markets. Portfolios may also have some exposure to historically lower correlating asset classes such as real estate, commodities, or hedged equity.

Within the fixed income exposure of any strategy, the underlying holdings are generally diversified among multiple sectors and/or maturity ranges. Tax-exempt strategies are employed when beneficial to the client or requested by you.

When choosing your investments, SD Wealth Management's method of analysis involves a process that focuses on both quantitative and qualitative factors. Quantitative analysis is a technique that seeks to understand behavior by using mathematical and statistical modeling, measurement and research. Quantitative analysis assigns a numerical value to variables. Examples of quantitative analysis include changes in share price, debt-to-equity ratio, price-to-equity ratio, discounted cash flow, or option pricing. Qualitative analysis uses subjective judgment based on information, such as management expertise, industry cycles, strength of research and development, and labor relations.

The selection process begins by looking at the universe of offerings based on asset class and investment style, for example large cap domestic growth, mid cap domestic value, or international value. Various screens are then applied to the respective universe to identify quality investments with a long-term, repeatable track record of consistent performance. Rigorous analysis is applied to the underlying strategies, whether they are in the form of mutual funds, separate accounts, or limited partnerships. Factors that are analyzed include historical risk and return patterns, costs (including trading costs), and correlations between and among separate asset classes. On the qualitative side, factors that are weighed include the tenure of the investment team, size of the strategy, underlying process and philosophy, and compliance track record.

Investments are then monitored on an on-going basis and the performance of each is tracked against its appropriate benchmark. The benchmarks generally used include the S&P 500 Index (large cap U.S. equities), the Russell Mid Cap Index (mid cap U.S. equities), the Russell 2000 Index (small cap U.S. equities), the MSCI EAFE Index (international equities), the Barclays Capital U.S. Aggregate Bond Index (taxable bonds), and the Barclays Capital Municipal Bond Index (tax-free bonds).

All underlying portfolio strategies are analyzed on an after-fee basis. The frequency of trading within a strategy is a factor that can detract from your performance, especially on an after-tax basis. Accordingly, the strategy's historical trading frequency and its effects on performance is considered.

Investors face the following investment risks:

- Market Risk: Market risk involves the possibility that the investments in equity securities will decline because of falls in the stock market, reducing the value of individual companies' stocks regardless of the success or failure of an individual company's operations. The price of a security, bond, or mutual fund may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions. This type of risk is caused by external factors independent of a security's particular underlying circumstances. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.
- Interest-Rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates cause investment prices to fluctuate. Changes in interest rates could affect corporate earnings growth, equity valuations, investors' appetite for risk, and the level of the U.S. dollar, all of which can have consequences for stock prices.
- Inflation Risk: When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will not buy as much as a dollar next year, because purchasing power is eroding at the rate of inflation.
- Value Style Risk: Investing in value stocks presents the risk that the stocks never reach what the adviser believes are their full market values, either because the market fails to recognize what the adviser considers to be the companies' true business values or because the adviser misjudged those values. In addition, value stocks may fall out of favor with investors and underperform growth stocks during given periods.
- Growth Style Risk: To the extent that the portfolio holdings include companies that appear to be growth-oriented, there is risk that the adviser's perceptions of a company's growth potential are wrong, or the securities purchased may not perform as expected, causing losses to the portfolio.
- Small and Medium Cap Company Risk: Securities of companies with small and medium market capitalizations are often more volatile and less liquid than investments in larger companies. Small and medium cap companies face a greater risk of business failure, which could increase the volatility of the portfolio.
- Company Risk: The value of a client's portfolio fluctuates in response to the activities and financial prospects of an individual company in the portfolio. The value of an individual company can be more volatile than the market as a whole.
- Sector/Industry Risk: From time to time, a client portfolio may have over-weighted positions in particular market sectors and/or industries, which can be more volatile or underperform relative to the market as a whole.
- REIT Risk: REITs are generally subject to risks associated with investing in real estate and risks related specifically to their structure and focus, less market liquidity and greater price volatility.

Public Health Risk – Certain countries have been susceptible to epidemics, such as severe acute respiratory syndrome, avian flu, H1N1/09 flu, and, most recently, the coronavirus. The outbreak of an infectious disease or any other serious public health concern, together with any resulting restrictions on travel or quarantines imposed, has a negative impact on the economy, and business activity in any of the countries in which the Firm may invest and thereby adversely affect the performance of a client's account.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

SD Wealth Management's personnel do not have any legal or disciplinary events to report.

SD Wealth Management utilized the marketing materials provided by a portfolio subadvisor, F-Squared Investments. Without knowing the material was incorrect, F-Squared's materials were distributed to prospects and existing clients. In December 2014, F-Squared Investments admitted it violated federal securities laws related to inaccurate performance reporting. The SEC found SD Wealth Management took insufficient steps to confirm the accuracy of F-Squared's historical data and other information contained in F-Squared's materials. Without admitting or denying the SEC's findings, SD Wealth Management agreed to cease and desist from committing or causing any violations and future violations of Section 204(a) and 206(4) of the Advisers Act and Rules 204-2(a)(16) and 206(4)-1(a)(5) and paid a civil monetary penalty.

SD Corporate Finance is a registered broker/dealer, member FINRA/SIPC, established to facilitate investment banking or merger and acquisition projects that involve securities transactions. SD Corporate Finance does not receive or hold funds or securities for customers and SD Corporate Finance does not hold accounts for customers. Although an affiliated entity, it has no direct business involvement with SD Wealth Management. However, as noted in Item 5: Fees and Compensation, a conflict of interest arises through the offering of private placements in which a SD Wealth Management client invests. In some instances, SDCO will also provide accounting services to the issuer of the private placement marketed by SD Corporate Finance. To address these issues, when a client from SD Wealth Management invests in a private placement marketed by SD Corporate Finance, additional documentation will be provided to the client, and signed off on, to ensure the client fully understands the relationship, including SDCO's involvement if any. There is no obligation for SD Wealth Management clients to purchase units of a private placement offering, however, if this should occur shareholders common to SD Wealth Management, SD Corporate Finance, and SDCO may derive a benefit. Don Linzer is a registered representative with SD Corporate Finance.

SD Advantage Retirement Solutions (SDARS) performs recordkeeping and third party administrative services for qualified retirement plans. Clients may use SDARS in connection with their qualified retirement plans to perform recordkeeping and/or third party administrative services. Clients are not obligated to use SDARS for its services. Referral fees are not paid to SD Wealth Management; however, shareholders common to both entities may derive a benefit from insurance services provided by SD Insurance Advisers. You should be aware that while SD Insurance Advisers is a separate entity from SD Wealth Management, receipt of additional compensation by common owners presents a conflict of interest.

Business and Succession Planning Advisors, LLC (BSPA) is a law firm that assists clients in creating wills, powers of attorney's, trusts, and other estate planning documents. BSPA also assists business entities with succession planning and other various legal issues encountered by those entities. BSPA is not affiliated in any way with SD Wealth Management. BSPA does, however, rent office space from Schneider Downs & Company, Inc. Thus, while BSPA is not an affiliate of SD Wealth Management, the business relationship that exists between the two entities presents a conflict of interest. SD Wealth Management, as part of the planning process, may recommend BSPA to assist its clients with the preparation of estate planning documents. Clients of SD Wealth Management are not obligated to use BSPA for any services and BSPA clients are not obligated to use SD Wealth Management for any services. If BSPA provides services to a client, the fees charged by BSPA for those services are separate from the fees charged to the client by SD Wealth Management. SD Wealth Management does not receive referral fees from, nor does it pay referral fees, to BSPA.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading SD Wealth Management has adopted a Code of Ethics which sets forth high ethical standards of business conduct that SD Wealth Management requires of its employees, including compliance with applicable federal and state regulations governing the firm.

The Code of Ethics includes policies and procedures for the review of securities transactions of SD Wealth Management's Access Persons. An Access Person consists of all SD Wealth Management employees, owners with more than 5% ownership and any other individuals determined applicable by management. Access Persons are identified by the Compliance Officer at the date of hire and reviewed at least annually. Access Persons are required to report any accounts in which they have a beneficial interest, including accounts for immediate family and household members. Accounts that are opened or closed, throughout the year, must be reported immediately. All securities transactions in these accounts are reported on a quarterly basis to the Compliance Officer or other designated individual.

SD Wealth Management does not buy nor sell for itself securities that it also recommends to you, nor does SD Wealth Management engage in principal transactions. However, associated persons with SD Wealth Management may buy or sell securities for their personal accounts identical or different than those recommended to you. It is the policy of SD Wealth Management that no person employed by SD Wealth Management shall prefer his own interest to that of an advisory client or make personal investment decisions based on the investment decisions of advisory clients. SD Wealth Management generally uses a combination of mutual funds and exchange traded funds. When individual equity holdings are used, SD Wealth Management generally does so through the services of an unaffiliated separate account manager. SD Wealth Management does not receive information pre-trade from the separate account manager; therefore, the opportunity of conflict of interest is not present in terms of these equity securities.

SD Wealth Management's Code of Ethics also requires employees to obtain prior approval of any acquisition of securities in a limited offering (e.g. private placement) or initial public offering. Additional policies are in place to assure that if the situation arises, associated persons cannot transact in a manner that may conflict with the interests of SD Wealth Management's clients.

The policies and procedures above do not apply to accounts that hold only direct obligations of the Government of the United States, bankers acceptances, bank certificates of deposits, commercial paper and high quality short-term debt instruments, or shares issued by registered affiliated or unaffiliated open-end investment companies. Examples of the above include CD's, US Treasuries and mutual funds.

SD Wealth Management also maintains and enforces written policies reasonably designed to prevent the unlawful use of material non-public information by SD Wealth Management and any of its Associated Persons. A copy of SD Wealth Management's Code of Ethics is available upon request.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

For Investment Management accounts, SDWMA Personal Financial Services participates in the Schwab Advisor Services ("Schwab") program, a division of Charles Schwab & Co., Inc., a registered broker-dealer, member SIPC. SDWMA Personal Financial Services also has an arrangement with National Financial Services LLC and Fidelity Brokerage Services LLC (collectively referred to as "Fidelity"), registered broker dealers, member SIPC, through which Fidelity provides institutional platform services. We are independently owned and operated and are not affiliated with Schwab or Fidelity. They will hold your assets in a brokerage account and buy and sell securities when we instruct them to. Clients select the broker dealer and custodian for their accounts; however, SDWMA Personal Financial Services will routinely recommend that the client chooses either Schwab or Fidelity. SDWMA Personal Financial Services has evaluated Schwab and Fidelity and believes that they will provide you with a comparable blend of execution services, commission costs and professionalism.

Factors that SD Wealth Management considers in recommending Schwab or Fidelity to you include their respective financial strength, reputation, execution, pricing, research, and service. Schwab and Fidelity brokerage services include access to a broad range of investment products, execution of securities and custody of your assets. The investment products available through Schwab and Fidelity include some to which we might not otherwise have access or that would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment. They enable SD Wealth Management to obtain many mutual funds without transaction charges and mutual funds at nominal transaction charges. For accounts Schwab and Fidelity maintain custody on, they do not charge separately for custody, but are compensated by account holders through commissions or other transaction-related fees for securities trades that are executed on their platforms or settle into Schwab or Fidelity accounts.

Schwab and Fidelity charge commission rates that are generally considered discounted from customary retail commission rates. The commissions and/or transaction fees charged by Schwab and Fidelity may be higher or lower than those charged by other broker dealers. The brokerage commissions and/or transaction fees charged by Schwab and Fidelity are exclusive of, and in addition to, SD Wealth Management's investment management fees. For further information regarding fees please refer to Item 5: Fees and Compensation. In addition, Schwab and Fidelity are compensated by earning interest on the uninvested cash in your account and will also receive fees within their respective money market accounts.

Our interest in Schwab's services: Schwab provides consulting services regarding technology, marketing and business processes. This creates an incentive to maintain client accounts with Schwab based on our interest in receiving Schwab's services that benefit our business and Schwab's payment for services for which we would otherwise have to pay, which is a potential conflict of interest.

For SDWMA Personal Financial Services investment management services, transactions for each client are generally executed independently. Occasionally, SD Wealth Management will execute a transaction to purchase or sell the same security for numerous accounts. This has the potential to be either advantageous or disadvantageous to one or more accounts. Since mutual fund investments price the same for all clients at the end of the day, this would not be an issue on mutual fund trades. SD Wealth Management will only execute the transaction when it is believed to be in the best interest of the accounts affected. When such transactions occur, the objective will be to allocate the executions in a manner that is deemed equitable to the accounts involved.

In some instances, SDWMA Personal Financial Services will use a third party bond broker, to purchase individual bonds for clients. The bond brokers utilized are third party non-affiliated entities and will execute the trade, at the discretion of your adviser, and deliver the assets, through their clearing firm, to your account, held with Schwab or Fidelity. As part of this service, the bond broker will have the ability to see or download transactions from your designated bond account.

Each SAM also has its own policies with respect to the execution of transactions for client accounts. If a SAM executes a block order in a particular security for multiple clients, it will have to enter a block order for each custodian in which the client accounts are maintained. Since SDWMA Personal Financial Services clients may be custodied at Schwab or Fidelity, you may or may not receive the same execution price as other SDWMA Personal Financial Services clients utilizing the same SAM. SDWMA Personal Financial Services has a reasonable belief that the custodians are able to obtain best execution and competitive prices.

For clients engaged in the SD Advantage IRA Platform, SD Wealth Management participates in the Mid Atlantic program. The platform consists of allocation models comprised of various mutual fund holdings, in which execution price is the same for all clients executed on that day. SD Wealth Management has evaluated Mid Atlantic and believes that they provide you with an acceptable and comparable blend of execution services, costs, and professionalism at the omnibus level.

For clients / participants utilizing the SD Advantage Retirement Plan Platform, the menu consists of various mutual fund holdings, in which execution price is the same for all clients executed on that day. Custodians are chosen based on the best fit for the plan depending on its size and specific needs. SD Wealth Management believes that each custodian will provide you with an acceptable and comparable blend of execution services, costs, and professionalism at the omnibus level.

The Broker / Dealers listed above and utilized by SD Wealth Management make available to us other products and services that assists SD Wealth Management in managing and administering our accounts, but may not directly benefit the client's account. These arrangements include investment research and access to software and technology. Some of the benefits SD Wealth Management derives from the software and technology including; access to client account data, duplicate trade confirmations and account statements, facilitating trade execution and allocating trade orders for multiple accounts, providing pricing and other market data, facilitating payment of our fees from our clients' accounts and assisting with back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting.

In addition, SD Wealth Management may utilize services provided to help us manage and further develop our business, such as educational conferences and events, publications and conferences, consulting on technology, compliance, legal and business needs, marketing consulting and support. SD Wealth Management may also receive discounts on services or software we use in our business that are provided by third party vendors.

All custodians utilized by SD Wealth Management are independently owned and operated and not affiliated with SD Wealth Management.

Mutual Funds Share Class Selection: Mutual funds generally offer multiple share classes available for investment based upon certain eligibility and/or purchase requirements. For instance, in addition to retail share classes (typically referred to as class A, class B and class C shares), funds may also offer institutional share classes or other share classes that are specifically designed for purchase by investors who meet certain specified eligibility criteria, including, for example, whether an account meets certain minimum dollar amount. Institutional share classes usually have a lower expense ratio than other share classes. When recommending investments in mutual funds, it is SD Wealth Management's policy to review and consider available share classes. SD Wealth Management's policy is to select the most appropriate share classes based on various factors including but not limited to: minimum investment requirements, trading restrictions, internal expense structure, transaction charges, availability and other factors. When considering all the appropriate factors SD Wealth Management can select a share class other than the 'lowest cost' share class. In order to select the most appropriate share class, SD Wealth Management considers retail, institutional or other share classes of the same mutual fund. Regardless of such considerations, clients should not assume that they will be invested in the share class with the lowest possible expense ratio. Clients should ask their adviser whether a lower cost share class is available instead of those selected by SD Wealth Management. SD Wealth Management periodically reviews the mutual funds held in client accounts to select the most appropriate share classes in light of its duty to obtain best execution.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

SD Wealth Management occasionally receives client referrals. The referrals come from current clients, attorneys, accountants, colleagues, personal friends of colleagues and other similar sources. SD Wealth Management does not direct or indirectly compensate referring parties for these referrals.

SD Wealth Management also receives an economic benefit from Schwab in the form of the support products and services it makes available to us and other independent advisors whose clients maintain their accounts at Schwab. In addition, on occasion, Schwab has agreed to pay for certain products and services for which we would otherwise have to pay for, based on the assets held with Schwab. Please see Item 12: Brokerage Practices for additional information.

In addition, according to SEC rules, SD Wealth Management claims custody as a result of shareholders/partners of SD Wealth Management acting as trustee or power of attorney for certain client's accounts.
